

Love Looks Good On You

(Verse 1)

I used to know the way you'd laugh, the twinkle in your eye
The way you'd hum a melody, beneath a sunlit sky
We built a world of whispered dreams, a future hand-in-hand
Now those memories linger, like footprints in the sand

(Chorus)

Love looks good on you, since the day we said we're through
A vibrant glow I barely saw, when I was holding you
A bittersweet symphony, a melody untold
Love looks good on you, but it's a story yet to unfold

(Verse 2)

Remember all the arguments, the doubts we used to keep?
The heaviness of expectations, secrets buried deep
Maybe we were holding on, to something that was gone
You finally found serenity, singing your own song

(Chorus)

Love looks good on you, since the day we said we're through
A vibrant glow I barely saw, when I was holding you
A bittersweet symphony, a melody untold
Love looks good on you, but it's a story yet to unfold

(Bridge)

I should be happy, to see you shine so bright
But a piece of me still wonders, could we have made it right
Maybe it was me, maybe it was us, a puzzle never solved
Just an observation, a story not evolved

(Chorus)

Love looks good on you, since the day we said we're through
A vibrant glow I barely saw, when I was holding you
A bittersweet symphony, a melody untold
Love looks good on you, but it's a story yet to unfold
