

Higher and Higher

[Verse1]

You've been walking through the shadows, carrying what no one sees
Every step a quiet battle, every breath a hidden plea
But I can feel the rising tremor in the space between your fears
And I'm ready for the moment when your walls begin to clear

[Chorus]

I'll take you higher and higher, 'til the night can't hold its breath
I'll do for you what no one would do, stand firm within your depths
When the moment starts to tremble and night turns electric blue
I'll take you higher and higher, where your pulse breaks something new

[Verse 2]

You've been holding back the thunder, trying not to shake the air
Every doubt a distant rumble, every hope a fragile flare
But I can hear the rising pressure in the silence you defend
And I'm ready for the moment when your storm begins to bend

[Chorus]

I'll take you higher and higher, 'til the night can't hold its breath
I'll do for you what no one would do, stand firm within your depths
When the moment starts to tremble and night turns electric blue
I'll take you higher and higher, where your pulse breaks something new

[Bridge]

Let the night fall silent
Let the weight release
Let the tremors rise until you finally find your peace
And when the sky breaks open
When the truth cuts through
I'll take you higher and higher, rising right beside you

[Chorus]

I'll take you higher and higher, 'til the night can't hold its breath
I'll do for you what no one would do, stand firm within your depths
When the moment starts to tremble and night turns electric blue
I'll take you higher and higher, where your pulse breaks something new